Marsala

Marsala, our guest city, located on the western coast of the island is known for its historical significance, beautiful beaches, and the production of the famous Marsala wine.

The town has a rich cultural heritage, with influences from various civilizations, including the Phoenicians, Romans, and Arabs.

We noticed that Marsala is home to several beautiful churches and squares in the town center. The town is also known for its salt pans, which have been in use since Roman times.

The town's economy is based on wine production, agriculture, and tourism, and it is a popular destination for visitors looking to experience Sicilian culture and history.

Monday

(7 april)

We were warmly welcomed by the host school. After a group photo, we presented our country, region, and high school to the other participants.

We then joined a TREASURE HUNT organized in international teams, which helped us socialize and work together.

The day ended with an outdoor culinary workshop where we prepared and shared traditional sandwiches, followed by our first walk through the city.

Tuesday

(8 april)

We attended an engaging debate on a topic regarding a sustainable change for the environment, eliminating cars from cities, with strong arguments and a final decisive vote even though they were divided opinions.

In the afternoon, we visited the local salt mines and museum, learning about the extraction and distribution process.

We then explored the town of Erice, enjoying its scenic views, narrow streets, and historic cathedrals.

Erice

Erice is the gorgeous medieval town located on a hill. During our visit, we explored the cobblestone streets and old churches.

One of the main attractions was the stunning panoramic view of the sea and the surrounding islands. We also visited the main Cathedral and enjoyed traditional Sicilian sweets from the local patisseries.

The views are unbelievable.

Wednesday

(9 april)

We spent the day in Palermo, together with students from France, Italy, and Spain.

We listened to traditional music from each country and visited key landmarks, such as the cathedral and the Norman Palace.

It was all a culturally rich and memorable place and experience, for some of us it was our favourite trip.

Thursday

(10 april)

It felt like the longest day, considering that all the activities were at school.
This was followed by a presentation related to emotions, and a little role play in which we had to express an emotion from a list only through body mimicry, and the others then had to guess it.

Finally, we were able to go to the gym, where we witnessed a choreography by the students on violence against women, followed by an hour in which we could socialize with the other students and play volleyball with them.

Friday

(11 april)

On the last day we were welcomed in the immersive room where we met “Nao” the school’s robot followed by a presentation of the immersive 3d screen.

After that followed a trip to Selinunte where we saw some interesting ruins right by the sea, which makes the whole thing feel even more surreal, and we attended a presentation on the site with a description of its history.

After that we finally returned to Marsala, but not before making a short stop on the way in Mazara Del Vallo, where we had an hour of free time to explore part of the city center.

The whole Erasmus experience in Marsala was amazing.
From the beautiful views and sunny weather to the friendly full of life people, everything made it feel special.

We got to learn a lot, try new things, experience an another culture and make some friends along the way, all while enjoying the charm of this lovely town. It wasn't just about visiting places, it was about having fun, and making memories we'll never forget.

Marsala gave us a little taste of something different, and we'll carry that with us wherever we go next.
